RE:QubitTech / Toridion

Toridion have recently received a number of enquiries to confirm or deny Toridion's partnership, collaboration or involvement with QubitTech OU (QubitTech). (www.qubittech.ai).

Toridion have not, do not and will not supply any quantum related technology to QubitTech OU or its related subsidiaries.

Our CTO was contracted as a simple technical consultant for 3 days in July to advise QubitTech on the possible use or integration of Quantum Machine Learning and related Toridion technology into their systems.

This contract was terminated by CTO Mr Forshaw shortly after commencement and no further action or work was undertaken with respect to the brief.

Any online or offline promotional or technical information that purports or suggests an ongoing or active partnership, collaboration or works of any kind between QubitTech and Toridion is made against the express request by Toridion and the CTO to cease and desist dissemination of inaccurate, misleading or false information.

Toridion do not offer financial advice or endorse QubitTech.

Toridion have repeatedly instructed QubitTech to remove false, misleading and copyright infringing material.

Toridion can not and will not be held responsible for any loss howsoever caused as a result of the use of QubitTech and their related services.

A list of any past or present engagements is available from our website at <https://www.toridion.com/page/Partners-and-Outside-Collaborations>
